

To Whom It May Concern:

I gladly pay a premium for the features of XM satellite as the traffic and weather information provided for US cities suits my lifestyle and needs. I am very disappointed to hear that the FCC is considering regulating these services which I pay a premium to use.

Nothing is more infuriating to me than the FCC dictating what I can and cannot watch and hear. Especially considering that I am paying a premium for this "freedom" and luxury. It is not pornographic or offensive in nature, simply a useful service of traffic and weather reports.

Thank you for consideration of my comments.
